

Victoria Grandmothers for Africa

offer presentations about the Grandmothers to Grandmothers Campaign of the Stephen Lewis Foundation

Contact vg4apresentations@gmail.com

We present Paper Bead Making to students from Kindergarten to Grade 8, sending students home with a necklace they have made. We also have a Sack Gardens Project, Table Banking and can link to any social justice theme.

Presentations are geared to age, subject and curriculum, and are facilitated by skilled presenters, mostly retired teachers. Through hands-on and interactive methods, students learn about the work of grassroots projects in Africa responding to the impact of HIV and AIDS in their communities.

The Stephen Lewis Foundation

Since 2003, The Stephen Lewis Foundation has partnered with over 2100 initiatives in 335 grassroots organizations in 15 countries in sub-Saharan Africa. Its support enables projects to keep children in school and provide home based care, income generating initiatives, food security, medicine adherence and grief counseling to help people after disastrous losses. This partnership is based on respect for the enormous expertise of the people themselves as they combat the pandemic, and in recent years the Covid pandemic as well.

The Grandmothers to Grandmothers Campaign

Over 140 Canadian grandmother groups stand in solidarity with African grandmothers raising orphaned and vulnerable children. These indomitable women are turning the tide of the HIV and AIDS pandemic. In its first 15 years, the Campaign raised over $40 million for grassroots projects in Africa. From 2006 to 2023, Victoria Grandmothers alone raised over $2 million!

Canadian grandmothers pledge: We will not rest until they can rest.

Help us help young people understand this situation.
